OATH—the strongest oaths are straw.
here is her oath for love.
which gave me first my oath twenty thousand soul-confirming oaths a thousand oaths, an ocean his oaths are all
and full of new-found oaths.
rend thy faith into a thousand oaths and all those oaths descended that gave aim to all thy oaths.
and your boldness, cleave as oaks.
upon the oaths of judgment.
that a terrible oath, with a swaggering he will fight with you for his oath sake pray God he keep his oath!
was affianced to her by oath.
it is against my oath.
what he with his oath; and all probation think'st thou, thy oaths.
but I'll take my oath on it.
partly by his oath, which, first.
he hailed down oaths, that lie.
showers of oaths did melt two bosoms interchain'd with an oath a million fall, confounding oath with weigh oath with oath, and you will our oaths are past, and now subscribe to your deep oath [Col.—oaths] your oath is passed to pass away having sworn too hard-a-keeping oath the last that will last keep his oaths these oaths and laws will prove an idle he, and his competitors in oath, were seek a dispensation for his oath, to let dead lady; I have sworn an oath his deadly sin to keep his oath lose an oath to win a paradise?

OATH—would infringe an oath. Love's L. Lost, iv. 3 who can give an oath?
our oaths, to find ourselves (rep.)
of your eye must break my oath of heavenly oaths, vowed with integrity your oath ones broke, you force when I break this oath of mine never swore this lady such an oath played foul play with our oaths. misbecom'd oaths and gravities your oath I will not trust hath ta'en his oath, and comes.
I am enjoined by oath to observe I'll keep my oath, patiently to bear.
vow'd with oaths of love I have sworn an oath, that I will an oath, an oath, I have an oath in yet for your vehement oaths, you should stuck on with oaths.
and there's an oath of credit never more will break an oath with thee when I break that oath, let me where learned you that oath, fool?
full of strange oaths
the oath of a lover is no stronger.
sweaters brave oaths, and breaks them and all pretty oaths that are not promises, enticements, oaths, tokens. All's Well, iii. 5 the divine fortify of his soul upon oath these great oaths, and break scarce make 'tis not the many oaths that make would you believe my oaths therefore your oaths are words all men have the like oaths.
he professes not to keep his oaths ask him upon his oath, if he does thinks with oaths to face protesting oath on oath I take the like unfeigned oath that I may surely keep mine oath with oaths kept waking you had drawn oaths from him seek to unsphere the stars with oaths by oaths remove, or overbid, shake if word, nor oath, prevail not according to thine oath, places remote to be by oath enjoined to this it becomes thy oath full well.
break my oath to thee my fair bear witness to his oath my crown, my oath, my dignity. Comedy of Err., i. 1 with circumstance, and oaths.
branch and parcel of mine oath.
I have a king's oath to the contrary. King John, iii. 1 like a civil war, set at oath to oaths.
an oath the surety for thy truth (rep.) thy voluntary oath lives in this upon your oath of service to the Pope according to thy oath and band.
on the knight-hood.
come engaged by my oath and take an oath with thee to keep the oath that we whom both my oath and duty bids see joy, that breaks thy oath all dutious oaths [Col.—duties, rites] God pardon all oaths, that are the strong warrant of an oath let me unknice the oath 'twixt such earnest surety of my oaths.
a good mouth-filling oath my oath should be, by this fire professed him their oaths broke oath on oath, committed wrong that oath at Doncaster.
a lie with a slight oath.
an oath of mickle might sword is an oath, and oaths must have for oaths are straws pick up with new oaths that she may tread out the oath.
this soldier keep his oath? (rep.)
only downright oaths.
we'll take your oath
our oaths well kept and prosperous be!
lords, your oaths to Henry governor of Paris, take your oath.
amity, and oaths, there should be a ruler with unlawful oaths a dreadful oath, sworn with against thy oath, and true allegiance dispend with heaven for such an oath sin, to keep a sinful oath he was bound by the oath of God that here thou take an oath to cease. Henry VI, i. 2 this oath I willingly take I took an oath, that he should quietly any oath may be broken (rep.) an oath is of no moment.
your oath, my lord, is vain trust not simple Henry, nor his oaths so soon, and broke his solemn oath?
his life, against your holy oath?
for my oath, here's for your father's touching king Henry's oath his oath enrolled in the parliament to frustrate both his oath, and what since when, his oath is broke an oath's nay, then the work is done break an oath? No, never such an oath have you not broke your oaths?
but do not break your oaths my holy oath; to keep that oath
I am bound by oath to you.
by nothing, for this is no oath feared to break an oath by him (rep.)
to whom by oath he menaced he did discharge a horrible oath swear the oaths now to her. Troilus & Cressida, iii. 2

OATH—of oath, and big compare. Troilus & Cressida, iii. 2 that I affect the unfeigned oath to keep an oath that I have sworn I pr'ythee, do not hold me to mine oath man on his oath or bond your oaths; I'll trust to your conditions bound with an oath to yield.
breaking his oath and resolution state with ordinary oaths my love. Julius Caesar, i. 5 no, not an oath
and what other oath, than honesty or our performance did need an oath come now, keep thine oath!
the article of your oath (rep.) soul to the oath of loyalty if I borrowed mine oaths of him for any standers-by to curtail his oaths I will confirm with oath whose false oaths prevailed before with oath to violate my lady's honour how canst thou believe an oath?

 every one doth swear, that comes i. 2 with one foot's head I came to woo i. 2 a young Venetian, one that comes i. 2 as I heard, one night, fourscore i. 2 one of them poured in a rap i. 2 one half of me is yours i. 2 I am locked in one of them i. 2 having made one, methinks i. 2 like one of two contending in i. 2 you have got me one i. 2
 I got a promise of this fair one here what, not one hit? from Tripolis i. 2 and not one vessel 'scape (rep.) i. 2 and one in whom the ancient i. 2 there is but one hope in it that i. 2 as could well live, one by another i. 2 and Portia one, there must be i. 2 go one, and call the Jew into the i. 2 lose for me one drop of blood (rep.) i. 2 the twentieth part of one poor scruple shall seize one half his goods (rep.) i. 2 many vows of faith, and ne'er a true one there is not one so young and so As you Like it, i. 1 one that old Frederic, your i. 2 whipped for taxation, one of these i. 2 there is but one shamed that (rep.) i. 2 you shall try but one fall i. 2 one out of suits with fortune i. 2 not one to throw at a dog i. 2 and after one hour more, 'twill be i. 1 one that hath done me wrong i. 1 thou shalt have one i. 1 when such a one as she i. 1 and one man in his time plays i. 1 the more one sickens, the worse i. 1 such a one is he that is i. 1 ill-roasted egg, all on one side i. 1 that one body should be filled iii. 2 (verses) one inch of delay more is i. 2 answer me in one word i. 2 for the one sleeps easily, because i. 2 the one lacking the burden of i. 2 one that knew courtship too well i. 2 like one another, as halfpence are (rep.) i. 2 that is one of the points in i. 2 yes, one; and in this manner i. 2 shall not be one spot of love i. 2 then one of you will prove i. 3 as good causes one would desire i. 3 spurs his horse on one side i. 3 but that's all one, she is lost with i. 3 and he is one of the patterns of love i. 3 why then, can one desire too much of 'tis but one cast away, and so i. 3 break one jot of your promise (rep.) i. 3 that abuses every one's eyes i. 3 good-morrow, fair ones i. 3 by filling the one doth empty the other but they asked one another v. 2 her and death were both one thing v. 4 and like to have found one v. 4 met themselves, one of them thought to his, lands withheld v. 4 it were all one, that I should love All's Well, i. 1 one that goes with him; I love i. 1 how might one of us lose it i. 1 is like one of our French withered pears and he is one—What one, I faith? i. 1 their heads are both one, they may i. 1 if one be good, among nine bad (rep.) i. 3 (song) what one goes in ten? i. 3 his heart out, ere he pluck one i. 3 confess it, one to the other i. 3 no sword be worn, but one to dance with of the Spirit, one captain Spurio i. 1 my lord, these are married i. 1 I have spoke with one, that, in her now, fair one, does your business i. 1

ONE, which, as the dearest All's Well, ii. 1 a modest one, to hear me brag ii. 1 as one near death to those that ii. 1 but such a one, thy vassal, whom I ii. 1 to each of you one fair and virtuous marry to each, but one! ii. 3 not one of them, but had a noble ii. 3 fair one, I think not so. There's one ii. 3 a most harsh one ii. 3
 one, that she's not in heaven ii. 4 but one that lies three thirds ii. 5 hang him one Parolus ii. 5 thither they send one another ii. 5 know you such a one? ii. 5 the owner of no one good quality ii. 6 unless some one among us, whom ii. 6 we must every one be a man of ii. 6 what a speak to one another ii. 6 yet slight ones will not carry it ii. 6 and great ones I dare not give ii. 6 you shall hear one anon ii. 6 you should be such a one, you are ii. 6 all's one to him; what a past-saying whether one captain Dumbain be iii. 3 (note) one Diana, to take heed of (rep.) iii. 3 is reputed one of the best that is iii. 3 wronged you, one of the greatest iii. 4 made the days of wood nights one v. 1 to hear me one single word (rep.) v. 1 not one word more of the consumed a commoner o' the camp, if I be one you saw one here in court could v. 3 Young one kick me? v. 3 courtesies alone, they are scurvy ones here? one dead, or drunk? Taming of Sh. i. 1 (induc.) let one attend him with a silver i. 1 (induc.) some one be ready with a costly i. 1 (induc.) and each one of his officer i. 2 friendly welcome every one i. 2 (induc.) that one shall swear she bleeds i. 2 (induc.) and effect one thing specially i. 1 inventions meet and jump in one i. 1 one thing more rests (rep.) i. 2 if thou know one rich enough to be i. 2 books, good ones, I warrant you i. 2 more suitors have, and me for one i. 2 then well one more may i. 2 make one of them, Paris came i. 2 the one as famous for that i. 2 the one half of my lands i. 1 well aimed of such a young one i. 1 to wish me wed to one half lunatic i. 1 and I am one that love Bianca i. 1 as any one old signior Gremio has in D sol re, one cliff, two notes iii. 1 (gamut) been candlecases, one buckled iii. 2 one girl six times pieced iii. 2 with a linen stock on one leg iii. 2 why, that's all one iii. 2 more than one, and yet not many iii. 2 let them go, a couple of quiet ones iii. 2 both on one horse? iv. 1 one, Kate, that you may see iv. 1 and sits as one new-risen iv. 1 but one that scorns to live in this (rep.) as one unworthy all the former iv. 2
 'tis death for any one in Mantua iv. 2 among them, know you one Vindice? iv. 2 as an apple doth an oyster, and all one 'twixt me and one Baptista's daughter then both, or one, or any thing iv. 3 gentle, you shall have one iv. 3 with one of my lions iv. 3
 'tis ten to one it maimed you v. 2 let's each one send unto his wife v. 2 ay, and a kind one too v. 2 to sip, or touch one drop of it v. 2 thy sovereign, and one may drink v. 2 as big as one of yours, my heart v. 2 one that, indeed, physics the Winter's Tale, i. 1 to live on crutches till he had one i. 1 with one we thank you, many i. 2 one sevennight longer i. 2 and bleat the one at the other i. 2 one good deed, dying tongueless i. 2 with one soft kiss, a thousand i. 2 the one for ever earned a royal i. 2 by one that fixes no bourn i. 2 o'er head and ears a forked one i. 2 in every one of these no man is i. 2 would not live the running of one glass i. 2 thou hast the one half of my heart i. 2 a master, one of these i. 2 bears not one, let villany i. 2 than one condemned by the king's i. 2 a fine new prince, one of these days i. 1 I have one of sprites and goblins i. 1 a spider on one side, some i. 1 but if one present the abhorred i. 1 one that knows what she i. 1 in the which three great ones suffer i. 1 one whom much I honour i. 2 as well as one great one, and so forlorn i. 2 nor any, but one, that's here i. 2 you'll leave yourself hardly one subject i. 3 if she did know me one i. 3 not one of you: so, so, farewell i. 3 one of these i. 3
 if one jot beyond the bound i. 3
 I am barred, like one infectious i. 3 thoughts high for one so tender i. 3 one grave shall be for both i. 3 sometimes on one side, some i. 3 a pretty one, a very pretty one i. 3 in one self-born hour i. 3 song-men all, and very good ones i. 3 but one Puritan amongst them i. 1 which are married i. 1
 one of these two must be necessities i. 1 to each one sip (rep.) i. 1

ONE—(a fair one are you) Winter's Tale, iv. 3 to set one slip of the iv. 3 here's one, to a very doleful tune iv. 3 name to't, one mistress Tale-porter iv. 3 would not exchange flesh with one that very pretty one. Let's have some (rep.) iv. 3 one three of them, by their own iv. 3 of your daughter: one being dead iv. 3
 I can but shorten thy life one week iv. 3 the one he chides to hell iv. 3 as you shake off one, to take another one of these is true iv. 3 you shall not have one word iv. 3 had like to have given us one iv. 3 one that will either push on iv. 3 though my case be a pitiful one iv. 3 these blind ones, aboard him iv. 3 if one by one, you wedded all the world v. 1 you are one of those, would have him no wife; one worse, and better used v. 1 one that gives out himself prince v. 1 the one I have almost forgot v. 1 with starting on one another v. 2 a world ransomed, or one destroyed v. 2 extremity of the one, it must v. 2 beheld one joy crown another v. 2 she had one eye collied iv. 4 one of the prettiest touts v. 2 from one sign of colour, she did v. 2 to say, one would speak to her v. 2 your exultation partake to every one v. 3 lastingly one demand v. 3 the one so like to the other Comedy of Errors, i. 1 to him one of the other twins i. 1 made it one upon my cheek i. 2 well, I will marry one day, but to try sound two too. Nay, not sound (rep.) ii. 2 even an ones then ii. 2 for, if we two be one, and thou ii. 2 want wit in all one word to ii. 2 of welcome makes scarce one dainty iii. 1 in a store, when one is too iii. 1 the one ne'er got me credit iii. 2 one that claims me, one that (rep.) iii. 2 ay, such a one as man may not iii. 2 if every one know us iii. 2 jealous then of such a one iv. 2 one, whose hard heart is buttoned iv. 2 a shoulder-clapper, one that iv. 2 now the clock strikes one iv. 2 every one doth call me by my iv. 3 one that thinks iv. 3 ask but the paring of one's nail iv. 3 both one, and other, he denies iv. 3 one Angelo, a goldsmith iv. 4 each one with ireful passion v. 1 might make one was mad v. 1 they brought one Pinch v. 1 one of these men is Genius to v. 1 these two Dromios, one in semblance by this sympathised one day's error v. 1 hand in hand not one before another every one did beg Macbeth, i. 4 spoke with one that saw him die i. 4 as one that hath been studied i. 4 one of my fellows had the i. 5 now o'er the one half world i. 5 there's one did laugh in his sleep, and one one cried, God bless us, and amen ii. 2 making the green—one red ii. 2 trouble to you; but yet, 'tis one ii. 3 every one according to the gift iii. 1 I am one, my life's a fool's iii. 1 there's but one down iii. 3 ay, and a bold one, that dare iii. 4 there's not a one of them, but in iii. 4 and every one shall share it iv. 1 but one word more iv. 1 my heart throbs to know one thing iv. 1 her young ones in her nest iv. 2 why, one that swears and lies iv. 2 every one that does so iv. 2 hence, with your little ones iv. 2 than such a one to reign iv. 3 if such a one be fit to govern iv. 3 each minute tempts a new one iv. 3 all my pretty ones did you say iv. 3 and their dam, at one fell swoop? iv. 3 neither to you, nor any one v. 1 one, I say! one; two v. 1 such a one am I to fear, or none v. 7 by this great callet, one of greatest v. 7 must not yield to one v. 7 to each one, whom we v. 7 you came not of one mother, then King John, i. 1 and, as I think, of one father i. 1 one that will play the devil, sir ii. 1 one must prove greatest ii. 2 thou hast not saved one drop of ii. 2 let confusion of one part confirm ii. 2 out of one side her happy minion ii. 2 two such streams made one ii. 2 what say these words ii. 2 but this one word, whether iii. 1 scorched veins of one new burned iii. 1 sound one out (Col. Knt.-on into) the an hour, one minute, nay, one quiet then, as one that iii. 4 whisper one another in the ear iii. 4 at home, meet in one line iv. 3 the inveterate canker of one wound v. 2 commend me to one Hubert v. 4 I come one way of the Plantagenets v. 6 one thread, one little hair (rep.) v. 7 yet one but flatters us Richard II., i. 1 the one my duty owes i. 1 both grow in one i. 1 whereto thyself and me i. 2 springing from one root i. 2 one phial full of Edward's sacred (rep.) i. 2

ONE word more; grief boundeth Richard II. i. 2 permitted us, one of our souls i. 3 how long a time lies in one little i. 3 but grief makes one hour ten i. 3 or bend one wrinkle on my i. 3 did not the one deserve to have i. 1 divides one thing entire to many i. 2 the one's my sovereign, whom both i. 2 where one on his side fights, thousands i. 2 to raze one title of your honour i. 3 the one, in fear to lose what i. 4 one day too late, I fear i. 2 each one thrice worse than Judas i. 2 one word. He does me double i. 2 spring from one most gracious head i. 3 to drop them still upon one place i. 3 for every one doth so against i. 4 no more than every one doth know i. 4 excepting one, I would he were the best i. 4 a thousand spirits in one breast i. 4 found truth in all but one i. 4 two buckets filling one another i. 4 should'st thou find one heinous article i. 4 I'll beg one boon, and then be gone i. 4 and hate turns one, or both, to worthy i. 4 together weeping, make one woe i. 4 for every one for one man i. 4 one kiss shall stop our mouths i. 4 from one side to the other turning i. 4 I had as lief be none, as one i. 4 but makes one pardon strong i. 4 a little of one's nature again i. 4 thus play I, in one person i. 4 of one nature, of one substance bred Henry IV. i. 1 march all one way i. 1
 little better than one of the wicked i. 2
 I make one; I do not, call i. 2 Hark! what thou make one? i. 2 ask me for one penny cost to ransom i. 3 needs no more but one tongue i. 3 him tell it to one of his company i. 3 times cannot find one to do another i. 3 one horse, my lord, he brought i. 3 proficient in one quarter of an hour i. 3 under-sinker; one that never i. 3 in England; and one of them is fat i. 3 all one for that, a plague of all i. 3 one and Mordake, and a thousand i. 3 as like one of these harlotry i. 3 one of them is well known i. 3 monstrous! but one halfpenny-worth i. 3 as one not one of yours i. 3 than one of these same madmen i. 3 one no persuasion can do good upon i. 3 one poor penny-worth of sugar-candy i. 3 where shall I find one that can steal i. 3 at one cast? to set so rich (rep.) i. 3 till one drop down a corse i. 3 death's hand, for this one half-year i. 3 but that's all one; they'll find i. 3 in one sphere; nor can one England i. 3 as one to end the one of us Henry IV. i. 4 I speak with one, my lord i. 4 let one spirit of the first-born Cain i. 4 wrought out life, 'twas ten to one i. 4 overwhelmed all her litter but one i. 4 then he shall get one on his cheek i. 4 to be on any side but one i. 4 but the gout galls the one, and the i. 4 for the one, or the other, plays i. 4 like one, that draws the model of i. 4 one power against the French (rep.) i. 4 [Col. Kn.] a hundred mark to one i. 4 one you may do with sterling i. 4 not have attached one of so high blood i. 4 were the peach-coloured ones? i. 4 for one superfluous one of the i. 4 shall I tell thee one thing, Poins? i. 4 to thee (as to one it pleases me i. 4 perfumes the blood ere one can say i. 4 you cannot one bear with another's i. 4 what the good-pearl one must bear i. 4 I am the worse, when one says i. 4 for one of them, she is in hell i. 4 and asking every one for sir John i. 4
 'tis one o'clock, and past i. 4
 O heaven! that one might read i. 4 fight with one Sampson Stockfish i. 4 one of the king's justices of the peace i. 4 for one to do her husbandry i. 4 and spare me the great ones i. 4 for one donkey, and one i. 4 on my life, one time or other i. 4 whole strength into one giant arm i. 4 take diseases, one of another i. 4 shorten Harry's happy life one day i. 4 there's one Phil come from the court i. 4 sweet knight, thou art now one of i. 4 one word more, I beseech you (epil.) i. 4 thousand parts divide one man, Henry V. i. 1 than ever at one time the clergy i. 1 as every one of a sort i. 1 four hundred one and twenty i. 1 never did the clergy at one time i. 1 doth keep in one consent (rep.) i. 1 several ways, fly to one mark i. 1 in one town; as many fresh (rep.) i. 1 once afoot, end in one purpose i. 1 take you one quarter into France i. 1 we'll not offend one stomach (chorus) i. 1
 It is a simple one; but what though i. 1
 I will cut thy throat, one time or other i. 1 the crow a pudding one of these days i. 1 knives to cut one another's throats? i. 1 nor leave not one behind, that i. 1 I one, my lord, your highness i. 1 that one speck of evil i. 1 even just between twelve and one i. 1 I knew there was but one way i. 1 with one appearing hair (chorus) i. 1

ONE that is like to be executed Henry V. iii. 6 upon one part of English legs iii. 6 a sonnet begin so to one's mistress iii. 7 by one that knows him better iii. 7 dedicate one jot of colour (chorus) iv. 1 give to every one, a thawing (chorus) iv. 1 twenty French answers to one iv. 1 there's five to one; besides, they all iv. 3 but one ten thousand of those iv. 3 wish not one man more (rep.) iv. 3 likes me better, than to wish us one iv. 3 that every one may pare iv. 4 are all one reckonings iv. 4 but 'tis all one, 'tis so like as my iv. 7
 'tis the gage of one that I should fight iv. 7 there lie dead one hundred iv. 8 on one part and on the other? iv. 8 there is one goat for you v. 1 princes English, every one v. 2 what says she, fair one? v. 2 for the one, I have neither words v. 2 if thou wouldst have such a one v. 2 needs be granted to be murthered v. 2 for one fair French maid that v. 2 let that one article rank with v. 2 in one, your realms in one! (rep.) v. 2 one would have a lingering war Henry VI. i. 1 coat one half is cut away i. 1 not having struck one stroke i. 1 I'll change for one of ours i. 1 besiege us one hour in a month i. 2 sees me back one foot, or fly i. 2 he fighteth as one weary of i. 2 one to ten! lean raw-boned i. 2 one that still motions war i. 3 I can count every one, and view i. 4 of thy eyes, and thy cheek's side i. 4 one eye that looks at me i. 4 with one Joan la Pucelle joined i. 4 that one day bloomed, and fruitful i. 4 if it chance the one of us do fail i. 4 that every one may read i. 4 kindly give one fainting fit i. 4 when one will kill; mourn not i. 4 no one should sway but he; no one i. 4 but one imperious in another's throne? i. 4 so fast at another's pate i. 4 that grudge one thought of i. 4 one sudden foil shall never breed i. 4 one drop of blood, drawn from i. 4 French were almost ten to one i. 4 that any one should therefore be i. 4 for vengeance, every one will swear i. 4 mother's hopes lie in one tomb? i. 4 the help of one stands me in i. 4 all our lives in one small boat i. 4 shortening of my life one day i. 4 another professor of one faith i. 4 have their answers every one i. 4 two parts, is now conjoined in one i. 4 ten to one, we shall not find i. 4 one that at a triumph Henry VI. i. 5 lords, with one cheer, voice i. 5 vouchsafe one glance unto the i. 5 by one by one, we'll weed them all i. 5 or York, all's one to me i. 5 doth any one accuse York for i. 5 in the gate one night, as we i. 5 ten to one, old Joan had not gone i. 5 then send for one presently i. 5 mischiefs work the wicked ones i. 5 shall one day make the duke of York i. 5 when every one will give us i. 5 nor ever had one penny bribe i. 5 her harmless young one went i. 5 were not't all one, an empty i. 5 show me one scar character'd i. 5 said on, and one distraught i. 5 as one that surfeits thinking i. 5 it is our pleasure, one of them depart i. 5 apparel them all in one livery i. 5 by her he had two children at one birth i. 5 will not leave one lord, one gentleman i. 5 kill for a hundred lacking one i. 5 one and twenty fifteens, and one i. 5 struck'st thou one blow in the field? i. 5 let them kiss one another i. 5 I will make shift for one i. 5 if one so rude, and of so mean condition i. 5 of one or both of us the time i. 5 nor have we won one foot Henry VI. i. 6 hear his one word; let me i. 6 a thousand others, to reign i. 6 hath been ten to one i. 6 and leave not one alive, I live in i. 6 thou hast one son, for his i. 6 blows, two have for one i. 6 for one to trust his hand between i. 6 and ten to one is no impeachment i. 6 each one a perfect sun i. 6 but one lamp, one light, one sun i. 6 each one already blazing by us i. 6 ah, one that was a world taken i. 6 protection of their tender ones i. 6 now, one the better; then, another i. 6 the one, his purple blood right well i. 6 whether one rose and let the other i. 6 one way, or other, she is for a king i. 6 like one that stands upon a promontory i. 6 like one lost in a thorny wood i. 6 and this English queen, are one i. 6 but answer me one question i. 6 for this one speech, lord Huns i. 6 nor how to be contented with one wife i. 6 yet in this one thing let me i. 6 and, ten to one, you'll meet him i. 6 in case some one of you would fly i. 6 hapless male to one sweet i. 6 resident in men like one another i. 6 the one against the other Richard III. i. 1

ONE, had best to do it (rep.) Richard III. i. 1 yes, one place else, if you will hear i. 2 so might live one hour in your i. 2 name, but one of better nature i. 2 beg one favour at thy gracious i. 2 nor no one here; for curses never i. 3 but while one would tell twenty i. 4 it fills one full of obstacles i. 4 been fictions one against the other i. 4 to wait one that's lost i. 4 have but one false glass i. 4 grandam, one night as we did i. 4 I moralize two meanings in one word i. 4 one from lord Stanley i. 4 may be determined at the one i. 4 and myself, are at the one i. 4 ladies, one hour hence, and I'll i. 4 for never yet one hour in his bed i. 4 cradle for such little pretty ones! i. 4 girdling one another within their i. 4 one heaved o' high, to be hurled i. 4 one that waits the name (rep.) i. 4 for one that scorned at me (rep.) i. 4 now fearing one; for one commanding i. 4 as one being best acquainted i. 4 children, but one step below i. 4 of all one pain, save for a night i. 4 one take order, Buckingham i. 4 thither, is but one day's march i. 4 by this one bloody trial of sharp war i. 4 well, all's one for that; who hath i. 4 yet one thing more, good captain i. 4 every one did threaten to-morrow's i. 4 one raised in blood, and one (rep.) i. 4 one that hath been God's enemy i. 4 they would restrain the one, disdain i. 4 a mislook, one that never in his i. 4 what for your throned ones eye (rep.) Henry VIII. i. 1 but now married to one above itself i. 1
 'twas said, they saw but one i. 1 one, certes, that promises no element i. 1 and place infecting one another i. 1 once weak ones, is not ours i. 1 and, with one hand on his dagger i. 1 but they are shrewd ones; for when i. 1 lame ones; one would take it, that i. 1 a supper, and a great one, to many i. 1 but let now give so great one i. 1 brought with her one care abroad i. 1 a sweet society of fair ones i. 1 confessor to one or two of these! i. 1 you are one will keep them waking i. 1 there should be one amongst them i. 1 such a one, they all confess i. 1 one of her highness' women (rep.) i. 1 lead in your ladies, every one i. 1 of state was a deep envious one i. 1 for your prayers one sweeter i. 1 goodness and he'll up one monument! i. 1 will make them one day groan for't i. 1 at one stroke has taken for ever i. 1 must needs say, a noble one i. 1 for we are one in fortune i. 1 the king will know him one day i. 1 heaven will one day open the i. 1 I'll venture one heave at him i. 1
 I mean, the learned ones i. 1 hath sent one general tongue i. 1 was not one doctor Pace in i. 1 was reckoned one the wisest prince i. 1 spake one the least word i. 1 a wife, a true one? i. 1 one that ne'er dreamed of i. 1 an arch one, Cranmer; one hath i. 1 all the land's wealth into one i. 1 but, thus much, they are foul ones i. 1 all my glories in that one woman i. 1 sure and safe one, though my i. 1 and, sometimes, falling ones i. 1 so strangely in one piece i. 1 the one, of Winchester, (newly) i. 1 and one, already, of the privy-council i. 1 one, that by suggestion died all i. 1 scholar, and a ripe, and good one i. 1 one of which fell with him i. 1 of which there is not one, I dare avow i. 1 it's one o'clock, boy, isn't it? i. 1 who dare speak one syllable i. 1 the honour they do one another? (rep.) i. 1 childish pity to one man's honour i. 1 might go one way, and safely i. 1 one that, in all obedience i. 1 had one as great as you are? i. 1 this young one made a Christian (rep.) i. 1 a dozen crabtree staves, and strong ones i. 1 as much as one sound cudgel i. 1 this one christening will beget i. 1 leave her blessedness to one i. 1 this little one shall make it i. 1
 'tis ten to one, this play can (epil.) i. 1 for such a one we showed them (epil.) i. 1 on one and other side, Trojan, Troilus & Cress. (prol.) i. 1 black-a-moor: 'tis all one to me i. 1 one [Col. Kn.-two] and fifty hairs (rep.) i. 1 he's one of the flowers of Troy i. 1 he's one of the soundest judgments i. 1 it's all one; by God's lid, it does one's i. 1 you are such a woman, one knows not i. 1 say one of your watches i. 1 that's one of the chiefest of them too i. 1 by him one step below i. 1 may one, that is a herald i. 1 which with one voice call a kameannon i. 1 if there be one, among the fairest i. 1 one is, or hath, or means to be, that one i. 1 one that was a man when Hector's i. 1 one noble man, that hath one spark i. 1 and such a one, that one knows not i. 1 thus one again says Nestor i. 1
 the value of one ten i. 1

ONE—is in one man's valour Troilus & Cress. ii. 2 art not one? Yes. Then I lie not i. 1 shouldst have kept one of thy i. 1 dip their meat in one man's blood i. 2 commanding one another's fortunes i. 2 that bears not one spurn i. 2 would one day stamp upon me i. 2 I my lords, I have one word to say i. 2 but rather one of smiles i. 2 one Varro's servant, my good lord ii. 2 my mistress is one, and I am her fool ii. 2 the reason of this? I could render one ii. 2 two stones more than his artificial one ii. 2 one cloud of winter showers ii. 2 one of lord Timon's men (rep. iii. 4) iii. 1 and one that knows what belongs iii. 1 I can tell you one thing, my lord iii. 1 of one of his men was with lord Megaculus iii. 1

 I count it one of my great afflictions iii. 1 one business does command us all iii. 1 one may reach deep enough iii. 1 debts may well be called desperate ones iii. 1 one word, good citizens. Coriolanus, i. 1 one that hath always loved (rep.) i. 1 for that being one o' the lowest i. 1 the one side must have bale i. 1 the one affrights you, the other i. 1 which else would I feed on one another? i. 1 a strange one, (to break) i. 1 one's Junius Brutus, Sicinius Velutus i. 1 I'll lean upon one crutch i. 1 till one can do no more i. 2 than one valour to one credit out i. 2 one of his father's moods i. 3 with one part of our Roman power i. 3 and one infect another against i. 4 like one that means his proper i. 9 tell me one thing, shall I ask you ii. 1 he's poor in one one fault ii. 1 and one that loves a cup of hot wine ii. 1 one that converses more with ii. 1 you are a pair of strange ones ii. 1 I think, there's one at home for you ii. 1 one in the neck, and two ii. 1 only there is one thing wanting ii. 1

 'tis thought of every one, Coriolanus ii. 2
 I had rather have one scratch my ii. 2 that's thousand to one good one ii. 2 than one of his ears to hear it? ii. 2 neither will they bate one jot ii. 2 our wits were to issue out of one skull ii. 3 their consent of one direct way should ii. 3 by ones, by twos, and by threes ii. 3 every one of us has a single honour ii. 3 to one that would do thus (rep.) ii. 3 not one amongst us, save yourself ii. 3 one thus descended, that hath beside ii. 3 and such a one as he who puts ii. 3 and take the one by t'other iii. 1 why shall the people give one iii. 1 where one part does disdain iii. 1

ONE—hear me one word; beseech you. Coriolanus, iii. 1 one time will love another iii. 1 hence, were but one danger iii. 1 one word more, one word iii. 1 when one but of my ordinance iii. 2 at the price of one fair world iii. 3 to go rove with one that's yd iii. 3 shake off but one seven years iii. 3 baited with one that wants her wits? iii. 3 a most royal one: the centurions iii. 3 seem to wear one heart iii. 3 to take the one the other iii. 3 a strange one as ever I looked on iii. 3 a mavelous poor one. True iii. 3 and affecting one sole throne iv. 5 not to be other than one thing iv. 5 but, one of these, as he hath spices iv. 5 one fire drives out one fire, one nail, one iv. 5 yet one time he did call me iv. 5 to one whom they had punished iv. 5 for one poor groat or tri (rep.) iv. 5 I am one, that telling true iv. 5 than seek the end of one iv. 5 prate, like one i' the stocks iv. 5 o' the chiefest soldiers; I'll be one iv. 5

 I loved and undid me another iv. 5 Cassius, be you one. Julius Caesar, i. 2 set honour in one eye, and death i. 2 with more than with one man? (rep.) i. 2
 'twas one of these cornets i. 2 smiled at one another and shook i. 2 for here comes one in haste i. 3 no, it is Casca; one incorporate i. 3 shall Rome stand under one man's awe? i. 3 give me your hands all over, one by one i. 3 good-morrow to you every one i. 3 which did incorporate and make us one i. 3 hark, hark! one knocks: Portia i. 3 there is one within, besides the i. 3 two lions littered in one day i. 3 to be rendered for one one say i. 3 there is but one mind in all ii. 3 (paper) every one doth shine (rep.) ii. 3
 I do know but one that unassailable ii. 3 that one of two bad objects you ii. 3 should stand one of the three to share it? ii. 3 one that feeds on objects, arts ii. 3 what, shall one of us, that struck ii. 3 hated by one he loves; braved by ii. 3 Cicero being one. Cicero? ii. 3 farewell, every one ii. 3 hacked one another in the sides ii. 3 to set upon one battle all our ii. 3 good to all made one of them ii. 3 pray then, foresee me one. Antony & Cleopatra, i. 3 is there such a one? i. 3 good now, play one scene i. 3 courteous lord, one word; sir, you and I i. 3 to hate one great competitor i. 4 or, if you borrow one another's love i. 4 I'll think one of my places in a i. 5 painted one way like a Gorgon i. 5 they would have one man but a man? i. 6 pinch one another by the disposition i. 6 than drink so much in one i. 6 Sossius, one of my place in a i. 6 a very fine one: O how he loves Caesar! i. 6 her motion and her station are as one i. 6
 I have one thing more to ask him yet i. 6 grind the one [the Col.—each] other i. 6 they say, one Caesar i. 6 one of them rates all that is won i. 6 one, that but performs the bidding i. 6 than with an old one dying i. 6 by one that looks on fees? i. 6 with one that lies his points? i. 6 he's have one other gaudy night i. 6 when one so great begins to rage i. 6 fortune, he is twenty men to one i. 6
 'tis one of those odd tricks i. 6 as one that takes his leave i. 6 it will determine one way i. 6 who one ever near thee i. 6 run one before, and let the queen i. 6 the last day was a shrewd one to us i. 6 death of one that he be paid i. 6 nor any one. Thy death and fortunes i. 6 one word, sweet queen i. 6 or were one such i. 6 honour of thy lordship's note i. 6 with one that I have bred? i. 6
 I heard of one thing no longer i. 6 in Rome, at one Philario's Cymbeline, i. 2 O thou vile one! sir, it is your fault i. 2 the one may be sold, or the other i. 2 the one that I had frail, and the other usual i. 2 by the gods, it is one i. 2 will not trust one of her malice i. 2 to exchange one misery with i. 2 he is one of the noblest note i. 2 am an eminent monsieur i. 2 am one, sir? you look on me i. 2 should at one time encounter i. 2 and he is one the truest mannered i. 2 would he had been one of my rank! i. 2
 'tis thought, one of Leonatus' friends i. 2 of your lordship's pages i. 2 might touch! but kiss; one kiss! i. 2 heil is here; one, two, three,—time i. 2 the one is Caius Lucius i. 2 what if I do line one of their hands? i. 2 one of her women (rep. ii. 4) i. 2 one of your great knowing should learn i. 3 one, bred of alms, and fostered i. 3

ONE—your lady is one the fairest Cymbeline, ii. 4 each on one foot standing ii. 4 believed of one persuaded well ii. 4 like a full-acorned boar, a German one ii. 5 one vice but of a minute old, for one ii. 5 I do not say, I am one ii. 5 are med'cinal; that's one of them ii. 2 if one of mean affairs may plod it ii. 2 one score, twixt sun and sun ii. 2 why, one that rode to his execution ii. 3 nor me, one night, a storm ii. 3 one, but painted thus, would be ii. 4 I have not slept one wink ii. 4 first, make yourself but like one ii. 4 from every one the best she hath ii. 5
 I forgot to ask him one thing ii. 5
 I see a man's life, is a tedious one ii. 6 when rich ones scarce tell true ii. 6 thou art one o' the false ones ii. 6 no comfort to one not sociable ii. 6 he is but one; you and my brother ii. 2 cut off one Clooten's head ii. 2 from one bad thing to worse ii. 2 wears thee not the one half so well ii. 2 rotting together, have one dust ii. 2 young one, inform us of our fortunes ii. 2 never bestrid a horse, save one ii. 4 reserve my cracked one to more care ii. 4 you married ones, if each of you v. 1 no bond, but to do just ones v. 3 soldier, an honest one, I was v. 3 then, chased by one, are now each one v. 3 here is one: two boys, an old man v. 3 yet am I better than one that's sick v. 4 from her his dearest one v. 4 rare one! be not, as our fangled world v. 4 you'll never return to tell one v. 4 I never saw one so prone v. 4 so should I, if I were one (rep.) v. 4 one that promised naught but beggary v. 5 though with the loss of many a hold one v. 5 this one thing only I will entreat v. 5 one said another not more resembles v. 5 of all amongst the rarest of good ones v. 5 and one that had a royal love v. 5 I met out one the which the queen v. 5 a prince. A most uncivil one v. 5 buried one and twenty valiant sons Titus And. i. 2 one fit to bandy with thy lawless sons i. 2 my foes I do repute you every one i. 1 nor me, I so I were one i. 1 tiger's young ones teach the dam? i. 3 and one thing more, that womanhood i. 3 one hour's storm will drown i. 5 that the one will help to cut i. 5 I stand as one upon a rock i. 5 or any one of you, clasp off i. 5 O here I lift this one hand up i. 5 turn me to each one of you i. 5 more than one confederate in i. 5 one Multives lives, who cut i. 5 hast shot off one of Taurus' horns i. 5 my uncle and one of the imperial's i. 5 when as the one is wounded with i. 4 as willingly as one would I'd fly i. 2 and, if one arm's embracement i. 2 this one is Murder, Rape is the other's v. 2 come, be every one officious to v. 2 corn into one mutual sheaf (rep.) v. 3 if any one relies on pitying him v. 3 if one good deed in all my life i. 3 one sin, I know, another doth provoke Pericles, i. 1 of which thyself art one, who now i. 2 who shuns not to break one's oath i. 3 by the inducement of one oath to be one i. 3 throws down one mountain, to cast up i. 4 like one another's glass to trim i. 4 one sorrow never comes, but brings i. 4 the great ones eat up the little ones i. 4 I'd wish to make one there i. 1 to every one that comes to honour them ii. 3 therefore each one betake him to ii. 3 one twelve moons more she'll ii. 5 let me ask one thing ii. 5 every one with claps' gan sound iii. (Gower)
 I have one myself, who shall not be iii. 3 hath our Cleon one daughter iv. (Gower) ha! says one, wilt out? iv. 1 therefore, let's have fresh ones iv. 3 why lament you, pretty one? iv. 3 come, young one, I like the iv. 3 you are like one, that superstitiously iv. 4 to use one language, in each several iv. 4 (Gower) we have here one, sir, if she would iv. 6
 I'll give you one more long (rep.) iv. 6
 I beseech your honour, one piece for one iv. 6 one thing first. Come, now, your one thing iv. 6 in the end to buy him a wooden one? iv. 6 she sings like one in an oratory v. (Gower) hadst not spoke to any one v. 1 that, one mortal night, drove v. 1 welcome, fair one! (rep.) v. 1 such a one my daughter might v. 1 for thou look'st like one I have fostered v. 1 was given me by one that had some v. 1 early, one blustering morn v. 3
 I know, in that, are one Leary, i. 3 for taking one's part that is out i. 4 the one in motley here i. 4 I gavest thy golden one away i. 4 here comes one o' the parings i. 4 a fox, when one has caught her i. 4 why one's nose stands i' the middle i. 1
 I mean the whipped ones, for they i. 1
 I have one thing, of a queazy i. 1 one that wouldst be a bawd, in way of ii. 2 one whom I will beat into clamorous ii. 2 thus to rail on one, that is neither ii. 2 but the great one that goes up the hill ii. 4

ONE—no more see one another Lear, ii. 4 how, in one house, should many people ii. 4 what need one? O reason not the need ii. 4 him gladly, but not one follower ii. 4 one minded like the weather iii. 1 I have one part in my heart iii. 2 let me ask you the word in private iii. 4 for one blast of thy minikin mouth iii. 6 (song) I entertain you for one of my iii. 6 one that's of a neutral heart, and not (rep.) iii. 7 one side will mock another iii. 7 my lord, you have one eye left iii. 7 dizzy 'tis, to cast one's eyes so low iv. 6 hangs one that gathers samphire iv. 6 ere the black ones were there iv. 6 all the letters suns, I could not see one iv. 6 you are a royal one, and we obey you iv. 6 thou hast one daughter, who redeems iv. 6 every one hears that, which can distinguish v. 1 so poor, hear me one word v. 1 shall I take? Both? one? or neither? v. 1 packs and sects of great ones v. 3 one step I have advanced thee v. 3 the one the other poisoned v. 3
 I know when one is dead, and when one v. 3 of them we behold v. 3
 I will show myself Hamlet & Juliet, i. 1 here comes one of my master's kinsmen i. 1 stir one [Kaz.] foot to seek a foe i. 1 ill urged to one that is so ill i. 1 one more, most welcome, makes my i. 2 being one, may stand in number i. 2 one fire burns under another's hand i. 2 one desperate grief cures with another's i. 2 one fairer than my love! i. 2 see how one another lends content i. 3 why, may one ask? i. 4
 all in one or two i. 4
 I learned even now of one I danced i. 5 but one rhyme, and one I satisfied ii. 1 Venus one fair word, one nick-namé ii. 1 ere one can say it lightens ii. 2 on a sudden, one he would make ii. 3 a grave, to lay one in, another ii. 3 in one respect I'll thy assistant be ii. 4 one, two, and the third in your bosom ii. 4 of the widgows in one of thy wits ii. 4 one, gentlewoman, that will not ii. 4 keep counsel, putting one away? ii. 4 a nobleman in town, one Paris ii. 6 of joy that one short minute gives me ii. 6 holy church incorporate two in one ii. 6 thou art like one of those fellows iii. 1 for one would kill the other iii. 1 a word with one of you (rep.) iii. 1 nothing, but one of your nine lives iii. 1 with one hand beats cold death aside iii. 1 those twenty could but kill one life iii. 1 and Romeo, press one heavy bier! iii. 2 that one word, banished, hath iii. 2 arise, one knocks; good Romeo iii. 3 one kiss, and I'll descend iii. 3 ere dead in one of those fellows iii. 5 I'll send to one in Mantua iii. 5 one, who, to put thee from thy heaviness iii. 5 in one little body thou counterfeit'st iii. 5 I see this one is one too much iii. 5 may not one speak of thee? iii. 5 proportioned as one's heart could wish iii. 5 but one, poor one, one poor and (rep.) iii. 5 every one prepare to follow this fair iii. 5 of one our order, to associate me iii. 5 one writ with one of those fellows iii. 5 here's one, a friend, and one that knows iii. 5 my master one that you love iii. 5 anon, comes one with light to ope the iii. 5 the bell then beating one Hamlet, i. 1 to be contracted with one hand i. 2 with one auspicious, and one dropping eye i. 2 while one with moderate haste i. 2 carrying, I say, the stamp of one defect i. 4 that one may smile, and smile, and be i. 5 give me one poor request i. 5 (Col. Kaz.) one to my gracious king i. 2 then is the world one. A goodly one ii. 2 Denmark being one of the worst ii. 2 then your ambition makes it one ii. 2 why—one fair daughter, and no more ii. 2
 I remember, one said, there were no ii. 2 one speech in it I chiefly loved ii. 2 God hath given you one face, and you ii. 2 married already, all but one, shall live ii. 2 madness in great one's heart ii. 2 the censure of which one, must, in your ii. 2 as one, in suffering all, that suffers ii. 2 one scene of it comes near ii. 2 do not itself unkenel in one speech ii. 2 one as kind for one's heart ii. 2 this is one Lucianus, nephew to the king ii. 2 a whole one, I. For thou dost know ii. 2 O the recorders: let me see one ii. 2 may one be pardoned, and retain the ii. 3 when one can not repent ii. 3 but a sickly part of one true sense ii. 3 but one word more, good lady ii. 3 but I will deliver one yard below their ii. 3 when in one of two ii. 3 two dishes, but to one table ii. 3 man and wife is one flesh ii. 3 hath but one part wisdom, and, ever ii. 3 would make one think, there might ii. 3 the love knew him, and another ii. 3 such envy from him, that did that one ii. 3 a sight indeed, that could match you ii. 3 one wee doth tread upon another's ii. 3 as one incapable of her own distress ii. 3 one that would content God ii. 3 his purchases, and double me too ii. 3 one, that was a woman, sir v. 1

ONE now, to mock your own grinning? Hamlet, v. 1 prythee, Horatio, tell me one thing v. 1 life's no more than to say, one v. 2 come, one for me, I'll be your foil v. 2 one. No. Judgment. A life v. 2 three great ones of the city Othello, i. 1 one Michael Cassio, a Florentine i. 1 and such a one do I profess myself i. 1 found, sir, you are one of those i. 1
 I am one, sir, that comes to tell you i. 1 some one way, some another i. 1 this very night, at one another's heels i. 2 goodnight to every one: and, noble signior i. 3 the one's for use, the other useful it i. 3 had not one scale of reason to poise i. 3 one that excels the quirks of blazoning ii. 1
 'tis one Iago, ancient to the general ii. 1 there's one gone to the harbor? ii. 1 the one's for use, the other useful it ii. 1 pranks which fair and wise ones do ii. 1 one, that in the authority of her merit ii. 1 he is a good one, and his worthiness does ii. 1 one cup, I'll drink for you (rep.) ii. 1 good faith a little one, to pass a pint ii. 1 the one as long as the other ii. 1 with one of an ingrat infirmity ii. 1 and tilting one at other's breast ii. 1 as one would beat his offencelous shadow? ii. 1 one's a hundred times more do you ii. 1 one unperfectness shows me another ii. 1 tell her, there's one Cassio entreats her ii. 1 if he be not one that truly loves you ii. 1 from one that so imperfectly conceals ii. 1 faint! one of those in such a case ii. 1 yet, 'tis the plague of great ones ii. 1 one of this kind is Cassio ii. 1
 I gave her such a one; 'twas my ii. 1 one is too poor, too weak for my revenge! ii. 1
 'tis a good one, and his worthiness does ii. 1 though great ones are their object ii. 1 his second fit, he had one yesterday ii. 1 to beguile many, and be beguiled by one ii. 1 another fitchew! marry, a perfumed one ii. 1 a most unwhimsical one, albeit unused ii. 1 lest, being like one of heaven, the devil ii. 1 would it not make one weep? ii. 1 to fall out between twelve and one ii. 1 all's one: good father! how foolish are ii. 1 should one of those in such a case ii. 1 to go hang my head all at one side ii. 1 here's one comes in his shirt, with light ii. 1 one of them is here about (rep.) ii. 1 one more, one more (rep.) ii. 1 one, one, one, one, one, one, one, one ii. 1 world of one entire and perfect chrysolite ii. 1 the one of them imports the death of ii. 1 of one, that loved not wisely (rep.) ii. 1 of one, whose hand, like the base Judaea ii. 1

 PROPHET—of your prophecies . . . id. iii. 4 ensues, I list not prophesy . . . id. iii. 4 let my prophecy come home to you! . . . id. iii. 4 or rather the prophecy, like the parrot . . . id. iii. 4 he hath a heavenly prophecy . . . id. iii. 4 do prophecy upon it dangerously . . . id. iii. 4 let me prophesy; the blood of . . . id. iii. 4 I could prophesy, but that the . . . id. iii. 4 now proved a prophecy? . . . id. iii. 4 a man may prophesy . . . id. iii. 4 the spirit of deep prophecy she hath . . . id. iii. 4 and here I prophecy, this brawl . . . id. iii. 4 and now I fear that fatal prophecy . . . id. iii. 4 Henry the fifth did some prophecy . . . id. iii. 4 their deaths, a York can prophesy . . . id. iii. 4 my thoughts do hourly prophecy . . . id. iii. 4 Henry's late presaging prophecy did . . . id. iii. 4 and thus I prophecy, that many . . . id. iii. 4 about a prophecy, what says . . . id. iii. 4
 I prophecy the fearful time to thee . . . id. iii. 4 Henry the sixth did prophecy . . . id. iii. 4 thou didst prophecy, the time . . . id. iii. 4 broke into a general prophecy . . . id. iii. 4 by a vain prophet . . . id. iii. 4 prophecy is but half his journey. Troil. & Cress. iv. 5 thy wounds now do I prophecy. id. iv. 5
 I would not prophesy so . . . id. iv. 5
 I'll speak a prophecy ere I go . . . id. iv. 5 this prophecy Methinks shall make . . . id. iv. 5 thy very gain did prophecy a royal . . . id. iv. 5
 I will prophecy, he comes to tell me of id. iv. 5 but I do prophecy, the election lights on . . . id. iv. 5 PROPHETIC—my prophecies . . . id. iv. 5 prophesying feat of what hath id. iv. 5

 PROPHESIER. Bring him forth . . . id. iv. 4 PROPHET—and, like a prophet. Meas. for Meas. i. 2 which your prophet, the Nazarene, id. i. 2 a prophet, I, madam; I speak . . . id. i. 2 here's a prophet, that I brought . . . id. i. 2 did not the prophet say that, before . . . id. i. 2 I am a prophet new inspired . . . id. i. 2 with a prophet's eye, seen how his . . . id. i. 2 and lean-looked prophetic whisper . . . id. i. 2 no prophet will I trust, if she prove . . . id. i. 2 a prophet to the fall of all our foes! . . . id. i. 2 the prophets, and apostles . . . id. i. 2 die, prophet, in thy speech . . . id. i. 2 my oracle, my prophet, my dear . . . id. i. 2 how chance, the prophet could not . . . id. i. 2 a prophet, weep what it foresaw . . . id. i. 2 prophet may you be! if he false . . . id. i. 2 am like a prophet sudden enapt . . . id. i. 2 jesters do oft prove prophets . . . id. i. 2 PROPHETESS—a holy prophetess . . . id. i. 2 triumph in thy glorious prophetess! . . . id. i. 2 Margaret was a prophetess . . . id. i. 2 PROPHETIC—such prophet . . . id. i. 2

 my lord protector will come this way . . . i. 1 he'll be protector. Or thou, or I (rep.) . . . i. 1 and the protector's wife (rep. i. 3) . . . i. 2 my lord protector, 'tis his highness' . . . i. 2
 my lord protector will come this way . . . i. 3 Suffolk, and not my lord protector . . . i. 3 to my lord protector! . . . i. 3 (petit.) wings of our protector's grace, begin . . . i. 3 beside the haughty protector have we . . . i. 3 le protector of his grace? . . . i. 3 my lord protector will, I doubt it not . . . i. 4 a sorry breakfast for my lord protector . . . i. 4 my lord protector's hawks do tower so . . . ii. 1 pernicious protector, dangerous peer . . . ii. 1 against this, proud protector, with my . . . ii. 1 protector, see to't well . . . ii. 1 Eleanor, the protector's wife . . . ii. 1 so my lord protector, by this means . . . ii. 1 Henry will to himself protector be . . . ii. 3 when thou protector to the king . . . ii. 3 and thou a prince, protector of this land . . . ii. 3 being protector, stayed the soldiers' pay . . . iii. 1

PROTEUS—my loving Proteus. *Two Gen. of Ver. i. 1 thank on my Proteus, when thou . . . i. 1 sweet Proteus, nor now let us . . . i. 1 sir Proteus, save you . . . i. 1 think'st thou of the gentle Proteus? . . . i. 2 why not on Proteus—as of all the rest? . . . i. 2 and sent, thick, from Proteus . . . i. 2 I bid the base for Proteus . . . i. 2 here is writ, love wounded Proteus . . . i. 2 was Proteus written down . . . i. 2 forlorn Proteus, passionate Proteus . . . i. 2 you child at sir Proteus for going . . . i. 2 he said that Proteus, your son . . . i. 3 with them shall Proteus go . . . i. 3 sir Proteus, your father calls for you . . . i. 3 you have learned, like sir Proteus . . . ii. 1 you child at sir Proteus for going . . . ii. 1 sir Proteus, you are staid for . . . ii. 1 going with sir Proteus to . . . ii. 3 yet hath sir Proteus, for that's . . . ii. 3 welcome dear Proteus! . . . ii. 4 ay, Proteus, but this love where . . . ii. 4 O gentle Proteus, love's a mighty lord . . . ii. 4 pardon me, Proteus; all I can . . . ii. 4 good Proteus, go with me . . . ii. 4 perfection, as sir Proteus . . . ii. 7 till Proteus make return . . . ii. 7 if Proteus like your journey . . . ii. 7 warrant me welcome to my Proteus . . . ii. 7 did govern Proteus' birth . . . ii. 7 now tell me, Proteus . . . ii. 7 Proteus, I thank thee for . . . ii. 7 how now, sir Proteus? (rep. iv. 2 and v. 2) . . . ii. 7 Proteus, the good conceit . . . ii. 7 and, Proteus, we do thank you . . . ii. 7 sweet Proteus, my direction . . . ii. 7 this sir Proteus, that we talk on (rep.) . . . ii. 7 where lies sir Proteus? . . . ii. 7 alas, poor Proteus! . . . ii. 7 from my master, sir Proteus . . . ii. 7 thinks that Proteus hath forsaken her . . . ii. 7 sir Proteus, what says Silvia . . . ii. 7 than have false Proteus rescue me . . . ii. 7 I do detect false perjured Proteus . . . ii. 7 when Proteus, but this love where . . . ii. 7 all men but Proteus . . . ii. 7 Proteus, I am sorry I must . . . ii. 7 O Proteus, let this habit make . . . ii. 7 come, Proteus; 'tis your penance . . . ii. 7

- RIGHT—press to speak for right Henry VI. iii. 1 on his right, asking a wife for Edward right gracious lord, I cannot brook .. that did ever fence the right Henry from his right me but right, and you must all confess Edward's right (rep. iv. 7) for 'tis my right, and Henry but usurps an upright zeal to right prelates usurp'd my father's right and mine their ruin that usurped our right?
and, no doubt, right royal Richard III. i. 1 sorrow that I have, by right is yours to right the innocent decked in thy rights, as thou art stalled right, as snow in harvest I'll win our ancient right in France?
I do not doubt, right noble princes both being the right idea of your father with two right reverend fathers thy devotion, and right christian zeal your right of birth, your empery the right and fortune of his happy right well, dear madam

 O Rome, Rome! what Rome's Rome so Rome would, were he not Rome Rome, doff thy name; and for that henceforth I never will be Rome art thou not Rome, the Rome's Rome? gentle Rome, if thou dost love three words, dear Rome hist, Rome, hist! O for a falconer's of my Rome's name [Ant.]—Rome!
 Rome! my sweet Rome, Rome's Rome Rome hath not been in bed to-night where the devil should this Rome be?
 Rome will answer it.
 alas, poor Rome, he is already dead!
 here comes Rome, Rome's Rome signior Rome, bon jour! there's now art thou Rome; now art thou the young Rome? I can tell you (rep.) Rome, will you come to my father's?
 doth not rosenary and Rome begin Rome! no, not he; though his face come, what says Rome? Have you Rome shall thank thee, daughter . . .
 Mercutio, thou consort'st with Rome
 Rome, the hate I bear thee, can afford Rome, Romeo, brave Mercutio's dead Romeo, away, be gone! the citizens the man, slain by young Rome whom Rome's hand did slay; Rome Rome he cries aloud, hold friends!
 by and by comes back to Rome
 as he fell, did Rome turn and fly . . .
 Rome slew Tybalt, Rome must not Rome, Romeo, Romeo's Romeo let Rome hence in haste, else Romeo leap to these arms, untalked of black-browed night, give me my Romeo that speaks but Rome's name Rome can, though heaven cannot (rep.) hath Rome slain himself?

 thou and Romeo press one heavy bier!
 Rome banish! Rome's Romeo did Rome's hand shed Tybalt's blood? shame come to Rome! Blistered be Rome, Juliet, all slain, all dead (rep.) theirs are dry, for Romeo's banishment for Romeo is exiled, he made you for not Romeo, take my maidenhead! . . .
 I'll find Rome to comfort you your Romeo will be here at night . . .
 Rome, come forth; come forth.
 look on her, but Rome may not (rep.)
